

Christine Cardinal

I was born and raised in Glasgow, Scotland where I was introduced to Scottish Country Dancing in Primary School. I immigrated to Toronto, Canada in 1966, working for the Ontario Health Insurance and was transferred to Thunder Bay in 1972. I and my family moved to Nanaimo, BC in 1981 and moved to the mainland in 1982. I retired early from UBC Hospital in 2003, although I stayed on as a casual employee until 2013. I finally returned to dancing in 2012/13 joining the White Rock Club, where I've served on the executive for past four years.

Dancing keeps me busy along with golf, traveling to see family, knitting, and sewing.
